Lewis-Price & Associates CEO Ken Coleman Honored by Washington Business Journal's Diversity in Business Award

MCLEAN, Va., March. 19, 2021 – Lewis-Price & Associates, Inc., a fast-growing mission solutions company supporting federal agencies through premiere training, program management and technology services, announced that its founder, president and CEO, Ken Coleman, was recognized Thursday as an honoree by Washington Business Journal's 2021 Diversity in Business Awards.

"I am incredibly honored and grateful to receive this recognition from the Washington Business Journal, and share the honor with our whole team," said Coleman. "Lewis-Price prides itself on its dedication to diversity and inclusivity of our workforce as well as the workforce we support and strengthen every day for our government customers. A more diverse workforce can be a more creative workforce and take organizations to a much higher level of success."

This Diversity Awards program recognizes the top business leaders of color in the Greater Washington area based on demonstrated success over the past 12 to 18 months. The 25 honorees were nominated by Washington Business Journal readers and chosen by a panel of judges that includes alumni of the program and editorial staff.

Coleman is a recognized leader in the government industry and has led the Lewis-Price team over the past year to continuing growth and sustainability, even amidst the evolving challenges of the Covid-19 pandemic. In 2020, the company was recognized on the Inc. 5000 as one of the fastest growing companies in the nation and also ranked for the first time on the Washington Business Journal's list of Fastest Growing Companies in the D.C. area.

This is year 14 for Washington Business Journal's annual Diversity in Business Awards program. The program celebrated these leaders Thursday at a virtual awards ceremony.
