Lewis-Price & Associates Named Finalist for Corporate Social Responsibility Awards

MCLEAN, Va., Apr. 28, 2021 – Lewis-Price & Associates, Inc., a fast-growing mission solutions company supporting federal agencies through premiere training, program management and technology services, announced today that they have been recognized by the Corporate Social Responsibility and Nonprofit Awards as a finalist in the category of Campaign by a Black-Owned Business. This category honors excellence in successful communications and PR campaigns executed by Black-owned businesses.

“Our team takes great pride in being recognized for our professional development achievements,” said Ken Coleman, founder and CEO of Lewis-Price. “Corporate social responsibility is key to Lewis-Price & Associates’ mission and we are dedicated to providing groundbreaking solutions for our clients while giving back to the community around us. We are honored to be nominated alongside many other leading companies who share our same passion for community, diversity and inclusion. Congratulations to our diligent team for the hard work that earned Lewis-Price this achievement.”

The annual Corporate Social Responsibility and Nonprofit Awards are presented by PRNews and recognize businesses who strive to use their platforms for the betterment of their local communities and the global community at large. Selected finalists represent communicators that amplify the voices of marginalized groups and dedicate themselves to social causes. Winners were announced at the virtual awards ceremony on April 27.

Lisa Slappy, Chief Communications Officer of Lewis-Price, spoke alongside a panel of industry leaders at the Social Impact Summit preceding the awards ceremony. She discussed the company’s approach to corporate social responsibility and how it aligns with the core values. Being transparent, authentic and an internal investment are a few considerations when participating or donating to worthy causes, she said.
